MACKEREL CATCH STILL FAR BELOW

RECEIPTS TO DATE LESS THAN
THIRD FOR SAME PERIOD OF LAST YEAR.

The mackerel fleet continues to meet with little success. Last week the boats landed about 300,000 pounds of fresh mackerel and quite a proportion were "blinks" or "tacks" that weighed under a half pound. They were caught mostly in Barnstable Bay close in shore and seining is difficult without danger of tearing the gear.

In the corresponding week last year, the fleet had poor success, landing only a total of 419,500 pounds. The mackerel were caught off South Shoal light and comprised medium and small fish. The prices ranged from 3.6 to 7.75 cents per pound.

Total catch of mackerel to date has been 7,220,200 pounds of mackerel. In 1936, it was 23,521,100 pounds; 1935, 23,882,700 pounds; 1934, 15,210,600 pounds; 1933, 14,161,160 pounds.
